moving the invitation into your pocket, you are greeted by the smiling face of Victor, who offers to show you something of great importance.

Victor takes you over to the Western Library entrance. He positions you one step back and one step to the left of the door. “Wait here a moment, detective!”

He disappears into the Library. You hear rustling and clanging for a few moments, and Victor emerges.

“Such a dazzling coat of many colours!” you exclaim, without quite knowing why.

Indeed, it is quite an extravagant coat - reaching all the way to the floor, decorated brightly so that the colours seem to flow with his movements.

“Oh, this is just my smoking jacket! I think it’s quite lovely. No, what I wanted to show you was this. It’s another word puzzle!”

He hands you a slip of paper. “Mr. Bodwell said he couldn’t do it, and so gave it to me to solve. This was only last night!”

“I was quite honoured, but I couldn’t figure the damn thing out. Perhaps you will have better luck?”. He sways a little on his feet.

“Alright, Victor, steady now. Go back to the Dining Room, I’ll join you shortly.”

He shuffles off, and you start to read...
